To Infinity and Beyond! Space

Have you ever heard of a cartoon character called Buzz Lightyear? His inner voice always reminds him about "to infinity and beyond". Do you know that some spaceships have been flown out of the solar system and the Milky Way Galaxy? Let us read some information of the outside of the solar system.

First, the outermost of the solar system is the dwarf planet belt. In this belt, we can find many dwarf planets. Like Pluto, Eris, Haumea ... Next, Proxima Centauri is the closest to the sun. Although it is the closest star to the sun, the star is still more than three billion light years.

Second is about the exosystems. These systems are like the solar system but beyond the solar system. These systems have planets and the planets go around their suns. The first exosystem is the Geese system. The Geese system has many planets. These planets are called exoplanets and exoplanet means planets that are outside the solar system. Exoplanets are named by numbers and alphabets like "Geese-1301A" and others. Also, you can pay money to NASA to "buy a planet". You can name a new-founded exoplanet or dwarf planet like "David Chan Planet" or "Sam Planet".

At last, it is the observable space. The observable universe is the biggest "planet" or "galaxy" that the scientists can see. Some people think that there is a wall behind the observable space. The wall is called "Cosmic Horizon". No one knows that what is beyond or outside the wall.

We can only see 0.00001% of the entire universe. The universe is getting bigger and bigger. I hope we can go to the infinity and beyond a few years later.

My Best Friends In 6D

I have many friends, no matter at school or outside. However, if you ask me: "Who is or who are your friends in your class?" I will answer: "They are Belle, King and Ryan." They are my best friends in my class.

Let's share how I knew them one by one. I have known Belle since we were in Primary four. We were in the same class and I wanted to be friends with her as she looked kind according to her appearance. After we became friends, we started to write exchange diary. Until now, we are still writing. Writing exchange diary is really a wonderful activity! I hope that I can still write with her when we are in Laws Foundation College.

How about King? We have known each other since Primary Five. However, we didn't talk to each other at that time. On the 21st January, 2021, we finally became friends as we took the same coach to school. The luckiest was he sat behind Belle and me! Therefore, we became friends. King is a very friendly person! Every time I talk to him, he will listen to me. Also, his lips are always sealed. He won't spill secrets. He is a trustworthy person.

The last one is Ryan. Although we are in the same class since Primary One, we didn't talk to each other until he sat behind me in April. We started to talk and he was invited to write the exchange diary. Ryan is gentle and humorous as he always makes me laugh. Therefore, I'm really fortunate to make friends with him.

Making friends with Belle, King and Ryan is the happiest thing in my school life. They are brilliant! It's my pleasure to know them. I hope that we can be friends forever, even though we are adults!

My Favourite Country

Have you ever been to Dubai? I have been there before, and it was fun. Dubai, which is near Abra, is my favorite country and it is very hot.

There are a lot of scenic spots there, such as Burj Kalifa. It is the highest building in the world. I have been there and I could see the whole town on Burj Kalifa.

I love to swim there. There are a lot of water parks and I have played in there before. It was exciting. You can't judge the book by its cover. I will recommend you to go there.

I visited Dubai in the summer holiday in 2019. I went there with my friends and family. We enjoyed the trip very much. This was my favorite trip in my life. I also did things for the first time in my life, such as going to the desert, skiing, riding roller coaster, etc.

In conclusion, Dubai is my favorite country. Also it is very rich so we can play a lot of things there. Although everything I want to buy costs an arm and a leg, I still enjoy visiting Dubai very much. Hope I can go there again soon.

Listening to Music

Whenever I feel upset, bored or whatsoever, I always relax myself by listening to songs. Though, I just like some artists and songs.

I have a few songs that I have appreciated since the day they were released. The first song that I like a lot is "Hey There Delilah" from the Plain White T. It is an absolutely wonderful song. I knew this song from a streamer/ content creator that I like. He sang it on stream multiple times and it was wonderful! To be completely honest with you, most of my favorite songs are from content creators, or just how I knew the songs from their content.

Whenever I study, due to how normal songs with lyrics always distract me, I listen to "lo-fi music" because it is a genre of music without lyrics but calming beat. It can make you focus on your work easily and not get distracted as it sounds pretty good as well. Though this might make you feel like I'm obsessed with music, I can do revision for around 2 hours while listening to lo-fi beats without myself even noticing the time.

Music can always calm myself when I'm upset or feeling down. Listening to the lyrics and thinking about the meaning can always keep my brain busy from thinking about all the sadness and all. It's amazing, honestly. Music can also be inspirational, which is why I got inspired by some artists and wanted to produce music by myself, I wrote couple of songs before. But I just don't have the confidence to show them to people because of how lack of English skills I have and how poor my knowledge in Music is. Thus, it's not like a minor like me can do as well as the other artists anyways. Which was why I decided to give up and do so again when I get older and when I'm more confident in myself.

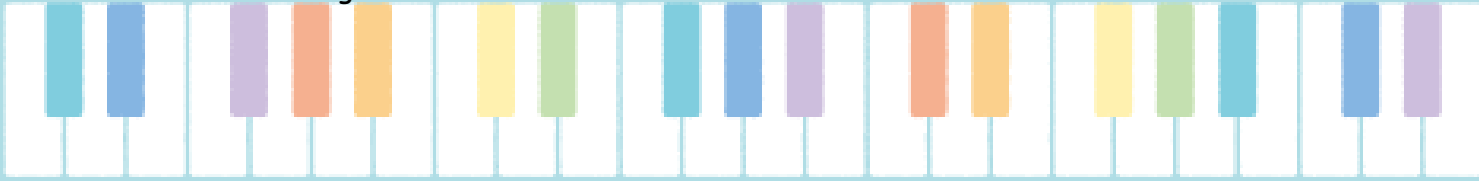

What is your favorite song? As you are reading this writing of mine, I hope you can answer my question since I'm just curious. It's alright if you're uncomfortable with answering though. I respect your own choices. But to leave this off, this is a list with some of my favorite songs and artists.

2. Dream
3. Lovejoy

My last exam in primary school

From 9th June to 17th June, I had my last exam in my primary school life. I studied very hard before the exam because I didn't want to feel regretful.

I was as busy as a bee during the weekends before the exam. I did a lot of revision in every subject, especially Chinese and English because they were arranged in the first week. Also, I did some exercises to improve my answering skills. Furthermore, I needed to memorize different things in different subjects. For instance, the vocabularies and parts of speech in English and Chinese Idioms. I really wanted to get higher marks in the exam!

I started to have my exam on 9th June. Every time I have my exam, I will feel very nervous and frightened because I am not confident enough. Thus, I will encourage myself after taking the exam.

Finally, I finished my exam on 17th June. Today, I was very scared and nervous when I was going to school. I was afraid that I didn't get good results. I really hoped that I could get higher marks in the exam! After getting the results, I felt a little bit disappointed in Maths and Music. I think I can do better in these subjects.

In conclusion, I am not satisfied with the results. I made some careless mistakes in my exam. And this causes mark deduction in most of the subjects. I think that I can be more careful and do the exam more slowly to prevent making a lot of mistakes. I hope that I can get good results in secondary school!
