

45 Kaitlyn

The differences of having lessons at home and having lessons at school

We need to have lessons at home now because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

When I have the lessons, I have to open an app called Zoom and log in to join the classroom. It takes some time. There are some differences of having lessons at home and having lessons at school. First, I cannot concentrate. I usually get distracted by the other things happening at home.

Although having lessons at home is more comfortable than having lessons at school, having lessons at school means I can chat to my classmates at recess. Therefore, I like having my lessons at school rather than having lessons at home. Which one do you prefer?

I really want to go back to school because I miss my classmates and teachers. Also, I want this pandemic to end quickly.

45 Michelle Lo

The differences of having lesson at home and having lessons at school

Because of the fifth wave of COVID-19, students are not allowed to have lessons at school. Thus, we do it at home.

Our school arranged "Zoom" lessons for students. I do not have my own study room, so I have zoom lessons in the living room. I think this is the most boring time in my life.

In my observation, the students have lessons at home are not as concentrated as having lessons at school. Students listen without paying full attention. However, in zoom lessons, we can see each other's face because everyone does not wear masks.

I want to go back to school because I am very excited to see my teachers and classmates. My friends and I will go bananas.

4S Tuen Chun Yiu

The differences of having lessons at home and having lessons at school

I have started to have lessons at home since mid-January because of the outbreak of the Omicron in Hong Kong.

When I have lessons at home, I may sometimes play with my stationery or do my homework. I am not as concentrated as I have lessons at school.

I think having lessons at school is more interesting than having lessons at home, but the lessons are more difficult than the lessons at home. Besides, having lessons at home is more comfortable than having lessons at school.

Although it's more challenging to have face-to-face classes, I still want to go back to school because lessons are more interesting and I can see my friends at school. I hope the pandemic will be over soon and I can go back to school.

4S Wan Sum Yin, Ella

The differences of having lessons at home and having lesson at school

Because of the COVID-19 pandemic, I always have lessons at home. It is really boring.

If I have lessons at home, it will not be as interesting as having lessons at school. Besides, having lessons at home doesn't work well. Someone nearby may chat and disturb me. And if the teacher finishes the lessons late, it will be harmful to my eyes due to too much screen time.

I hope COVID-19 will be over soon so that I can go back to school and learn more knowledge. We can also meet our friends and play with them. I think school is the best place to learn.

4S Wong Kin Hang Samuel

The difference of having lessons at home and having lessons at school

Due to the Covid-19 pandemic, we need to stay at home to have lessons. Before the Covid-19, I used to have lessons at school, but now I have to have lesson at home.

When I have lessons at home, I find that it is tough to concentrate, and incredibly hard to follow. The worst part is that my laptop often disconnects and I have to rejoin the zoom lesson again. In my opinion, I think that having lessons at school is better than having lessons at home.

I want to go back to school because my school is the best place for learning and our teachers are the best teachers in the world. Besides, I can talk and play with my friends at recess. I really miss my classmates and my teachers.