Chinese New Year

I have got a lot of lucky money every Chinese New Year. I usually keep the red packets in my piggy bank and open them after Chinese New Year.

Every year, I save a part of my lucky money in the bank for future use. I also donate a part of my lucky money to the charity organizations. This year, I will buy a Switch game to reward myself because I got good grades in the first term examination.

I feel very happy at this Chinese New Year because I can go to the AIA Carnival by using my lucky money.

Chinese New Year

At Chinese New Year, I have got a lot of red packets from my parents and relatives. I would like to use the lucky money in three ways.

Firstly, I will save most of my lucky money into my piggy bank. It is because saving money for future use is a good habit!

Next, I will give some of my lucky money to the charity. Helping people in need is a good behaviour and it is rewarding. I feel joyful when I can give someone a helping hand.

At last, I will spend a little of my lucky money to buy pretty toys that I like. I will play them with my friends and little brother.

I feel very cheerful to receive so many red packets during Chinese New Year! I will keep and use my lucky money very carefully.

Chinese New Year

Every Chinese Lunar New Year, I get a lot of red packets. I will keep them in my new piggy bank.

I will use the money in three ways. First, I will give some money to the charity. Then, I will save up half of my lucky money in my Piggy bank. Lastly, I will use some money to buy books, stationeries and other useful items for myself. I will think carefully before I use my money and I will not buy things I don't need.

I feel great to give money to the charity because I can help poor people. I also have learnt that not to use all the money at once.

Chinese New Year

Chinese New Year is the most prosperous time of the year. Why? Because according to Chinese tradition, people love giving out red packets as a way to send blessings and good wishes to other during the New Year period.

Every Year, I will get a lot of red packets. I will use the lucky money to buy stationery items for myself. Also, I will give some to the poor people and keep half of the lucky money for my future!

I feel very happy and great to receive the blessings from my family and relatives.

My Easter Holidays

I had an unforgettable experience during the Easter Holiday to share with you. On Good Friday, I went to the "Lost HK" with my elder brother, Gary. There are different featured rooms for us to participate in the escape game.

We had chosen 'Blood in the Dark' to challenge our problem-solving skills. When we entered the room, I was already scared by the decoration. Oh my God! It was just like a haunted house. My brain was frozen and I could not find out any useful cues that help me to get out of the room. I soon became impatient.

Luckily, Gary calmed me down. He observed the room and cues carefully. He guided me to solve the problem patiently.

Not long after, we finally found the way to get out of the terrifying room in time.

I have learnt a lot in this experience. I have reflected that I should not look down on Gary anymore. I have started to appreciate his bravery and patience. The experience tells me that I need to learn to keep myself calm when I encounter challenges. Therefore, I really want to challenge myself again in near future.

The background is a light blue sky filled with various Easter-themed illustrations. There are several colorful balloons in shades of yellow, orange, purple, and blue. A large, striped hot air balloon is prominent on the right side. There are also white, fluffy clouds scattered across the sky. The overall theme is festive and celebratory.

My Easter Holidays

One Sunny Easter morning, my family and I went to the Hong Kong Museum of Coastal Defence. After we arrived at the museum, we went to the fortress and walked around first. Then, we watched films, looked at the exhibits and played some educational games. We stayed there for about an hour, we went to look at the Camouflage mini anti-ship blaster.

At the blaster, I pretended to be an Operator firing at the enemy ships. It was fun. After that, we visited the missile storage room where we could see rows and rows of missiles.

Later, we went to the ditch fort. We saw statues that were holding model guns and pointing them out of the window. We could also hear a recording of some orders and a gun shooting.

Lastly, we went to the Mystery Anchor. It was found lying at the bottom of the sea. Up till now, no one knows which ship it belonged to.

I think this event is unforgettable because I have learnt interesting facts about Hong Kong military history. I want to come here again because the educational games were fun. I enjoy learning through games and outings.
