Mid-Autumn Festival

Today was the day after Mid-Autumn Festival, I had an unforgettable and fun-filled day. My family and I went cycling beside the river. At the same time, we enjoyed the great river view.

After that, I went to Victoria Park. It was crowded. Everyone flocked to watch the lanterns. They were magnificent. Some were traditional while some were character-shaped. They were amazing. Needless to say, we took many photos.

After we headed back home, we ate mooncakes and festive fruit like pomelos and star fruit. I enjoyed the happy moments under the moonlight.

Mid-Autumn Festival

It was the traditional Mid-Autumn Festival last Saturday. It is my cousin and friends' favourite Chinese festival. We looked forward to spending a warm time together.

That day, my mother planned to cook a sumptuous dinner and I called my relatives and friends to come to our place. I was so grateful that we could gather together.

In the afternoon, my cousin, grandma and my friends came and my mother served our guests with delicious dishes, like my favourite curry chicken and fish soup. After dinner, we took out our lanterns and went to the nearest park and watch the full moon. It was brighter than the sun. I pointed at the moon and said to my cousin, 'do you know there is a rabbit on the moon?' My cousin was amazed and responded, 'then I am going to put another rabbit on the moon!' We all laughed.

It was the most memorable Mid-Autumn Festival I ever had. I am looking forward to the next Mid-Autumn Festival.

New Year Plans

Many special things happened to me in 2022. First, I'm tested positive with Covid-19 twice in 2022, in February and August. Then, I passed the red and black level in Taekwondo with merit in September. I feel very satisfied and proud of myself.

I learn that we should value our time and catch the opportunity of learning. Life is full of uncertainty, we need to learn how to live with it.

Because of the government changes the policy, like shortening the quarantine period and no longer requires us to scan LeaveHomeSave before entering restaurants. My plan is 2023 is to travel out of Asia and know about cultures of other nations.

Mid-Autumn Festival

Today is the Mid-Autumn Festival. I'm so excited. I can't wait to eat mooncakes.

In the morning, I get tidy up and eat breakfast and tidy up my room, did you know why? (I usually don't tidy my room.) because my friend is coming!

I play games with him, we even practice the piano! We eat lunch together and read books. It is good fun! But he goes home soon.

Mum decides to go out and play to cheer me up. I play roller-skates with my sister. We play hide-and-seek too.

When we get home, I'm surprised that my friends are here! We play hide-and-seek...oh! We have a pillow fight too!

We started to eat dinner and mooncakes. (now it's getting more like a Mid-Autumn Festival.) the moon is really beautiful today. We play and eat. It is a wonderful sight.

Finally, everyone goes home and we go to bed. It is an unforgettable day!
