Graduation camp

On 10th April, it was the day which led me to the P.6 Graduation Camp. At 2:15 p.m., I started my journey with my mates and the unknown. All I knew that time was that it would be how dreams started without parents. At 2:20 a.m., I got on the bus and embarked my own journey.

We arrived at about 4:00 p.m. and met our roommates. My place in the following three days was room 102. After an hour for listening the rules and slightly unpacking my things in this room for ten-people, I got to the Amphitheatre and started my first activity named "Camp Exploration". We are first separated into 12 groups and I am in the 11th group. The "Camp Exploration" activity needed the groups to go to different places of the campsite to answer multiple questions with a map and an answer sheet. Within an hour, our group went on to the next stage called "Treasure Hunt in the Dark" at 7:00p.m.. We needed to find 26 small pieces of red word plates with a map, an answer sheet to record the words and torches. After 2 hours of searching, we finished the job and finally got some rest at our rooms.

The next day at 7:00 a.m., I went outside to enjoy the beautiful sunset and played with my roommates, After the time of joy, I got together with my groupmates and finished the activities. That day was a little bit boring but we had our barbeque time for our dinner.

It was the last day of our camp and all of the camping students, so students hurried for packing their luggage. But for me, I already packed my things at the last two nights and I still had time to play chess with my Alvin who also finished packing. The last activity was building a Ramen catapult. After an hour of work, my group finally fired the missiles successfully and got the 2nd place of the best group among the whole camp.

At 12th April 2:15 p.m., I left the camp with a coach. I met my parents and talked about how it is going at the camp with joy and happiness. It is the end, and how the dream ends in reality.

Easter Holiday

What is the most unforgettable moment in this Easter Holiday?
For me, it is my tower went on fire!

It was 2nd April, 2024 at 5:00 a.m. Everyone was asleep when the fire alarm went off. I was the first person to notice the alarm. I quickly woke up my brother and mother. However, my dad was deeply asleep and we had to shout at the top of our voices to wake him up!

After that, we picked up all our belongings and ran down the stairs at lightning-speed. Unfortunately, we could smell more and more smoke. There was very thick smoke on the third and second floor! We can't even see our own fingers! My brother and I were so scared, we were scared out of our wits! Luckily, there were firefighters to guide our way down safely.

At last, more and more firetrucks came to rescue and the fire was distinguished 30 minutes later. Our home was also luckily fine and we were very grateful about it!

After this life-threatening experience, I learnt that we should be more careful with fire and I also hope that this will never happen again.

Graduation Camp

The long-awaited day has arrived, tomorrow is our graduation camp! Once I arrived home, I quickly took out my suitcase and started packing my luggage. While packing, I was communicating with my roommates about what we should bring and who was responsible for which items. I felt so anxious, frequently checking the recommended list of items we should pack.

The next day, a busy day was awaiting. I woke up at 7a.m. and then double-checked my language. After a quick breakfast, I triple-checked my luggage, and then headed to school. 5 hours of school activities later, it was time to board the coaches and head to the camp.

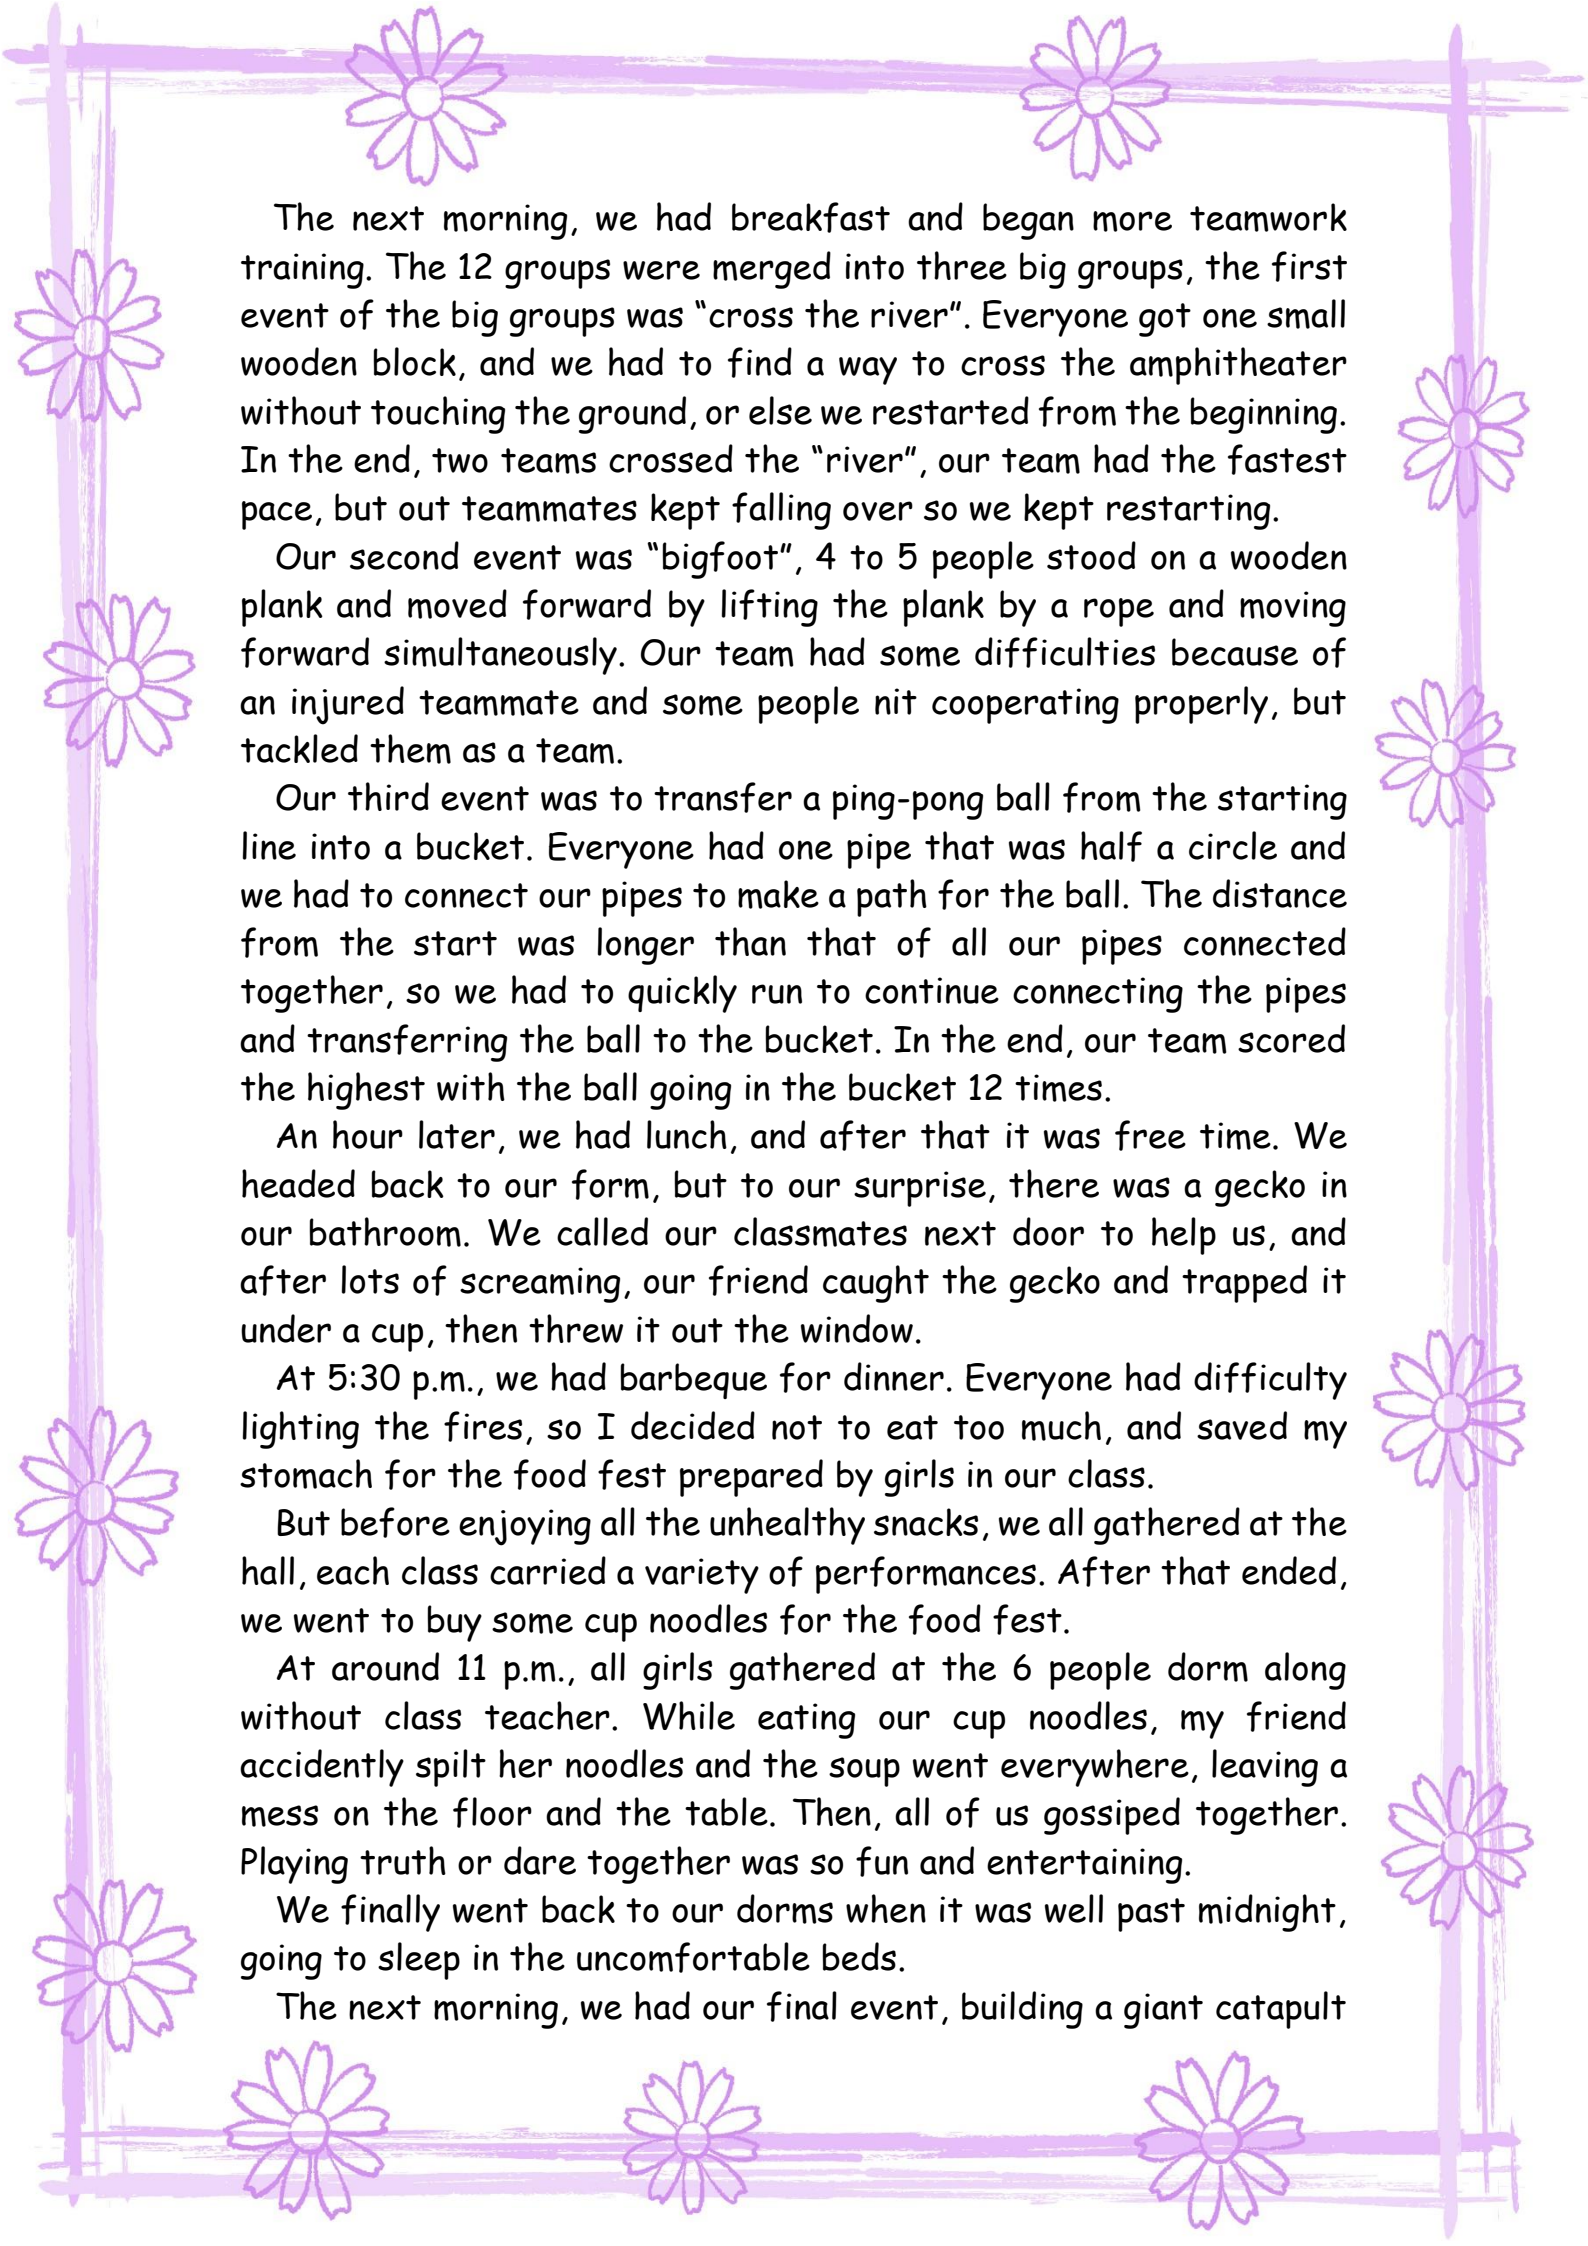

We first had a small meeting and kept our luggage in the hall and started our first event. The whole grade was split into 12 groups of 9 to 10 people and listened to the rules carefully.

The staffs gave each group a map of the campsite with questions at the back, along with pictures of the places where we could find the answers. On the map, it showed where we could find the answer to each question, which needed to be written down on the answer paper.

In the process, one of our teammates scraped his knee, and was sent to the infirmary. Roughly half an hour of searching later, we all returned back to the amphitheater and handed in our answer sheet.

Finally, we took back our luggage and went back to our dorms. We rested for a while and started unpacking our luggage in our shared rooms. Then we all had dinner in the cafeteria before we had my least favourite event of all.

In the event, we also had a map and an answer sheet, but we had to find 26 small tags hidden all around the campsite. The map showed where they could be found and some hints for where to search for them. Although we were the first team to finish, it was at night and we didn't have enough flashlights, so some teammates had to go back to their dorms to get their flashlights, and even if it was on the list of recommended items to bring, not many people brought it because it was just a recommendation, the whole game was a terrible experience, running around for an hour and thirty minutes, I even got into a minor argument with my friend. My legs were aching night after the event finished.

The next morning, we had breakfast and began more teamwork training. The 12 groups were merged into three big groups, the first event of the big groups was "cross the river". Everyone got one small wooden block, and we had to find a way to cross the amphitheater without touching the ground, or else we restarted from the beginning. In the end, two teams crossed the "river", our team had the fastest pace, but our teammates kept falling over so we kept restarting.

Our second event was "bigfoot", 4 to 5 people stood on a wooden plank and moved forward by lifting the plank by a rope and moving forward simultaneously. Our team had some difficulties because of an injured teammate and some people not cooperating properly, but tackled them as a team.

Our third event was to transfer a ping-pong ball from the starting line into a bucket. Everyone had one pipe that was half a circle and we had to connect our pipes to make a path for the ball. The distance from the start was longer than that of all our pipes connected together, so we had to quickly run to continue connecting the pipes and transferring the ball to the bucket. In the end, our team scored the highest with the ball going in the bucket 12 times.

An hour later, we had lunch, and after that it was free time. We headed back to our form, but to our surprise, there was a gecko in our bathroom. We called our classmates next door to help us, and after lots of screaming, our friend caught the gecko and trapped it under a cup, then threw it out the window.

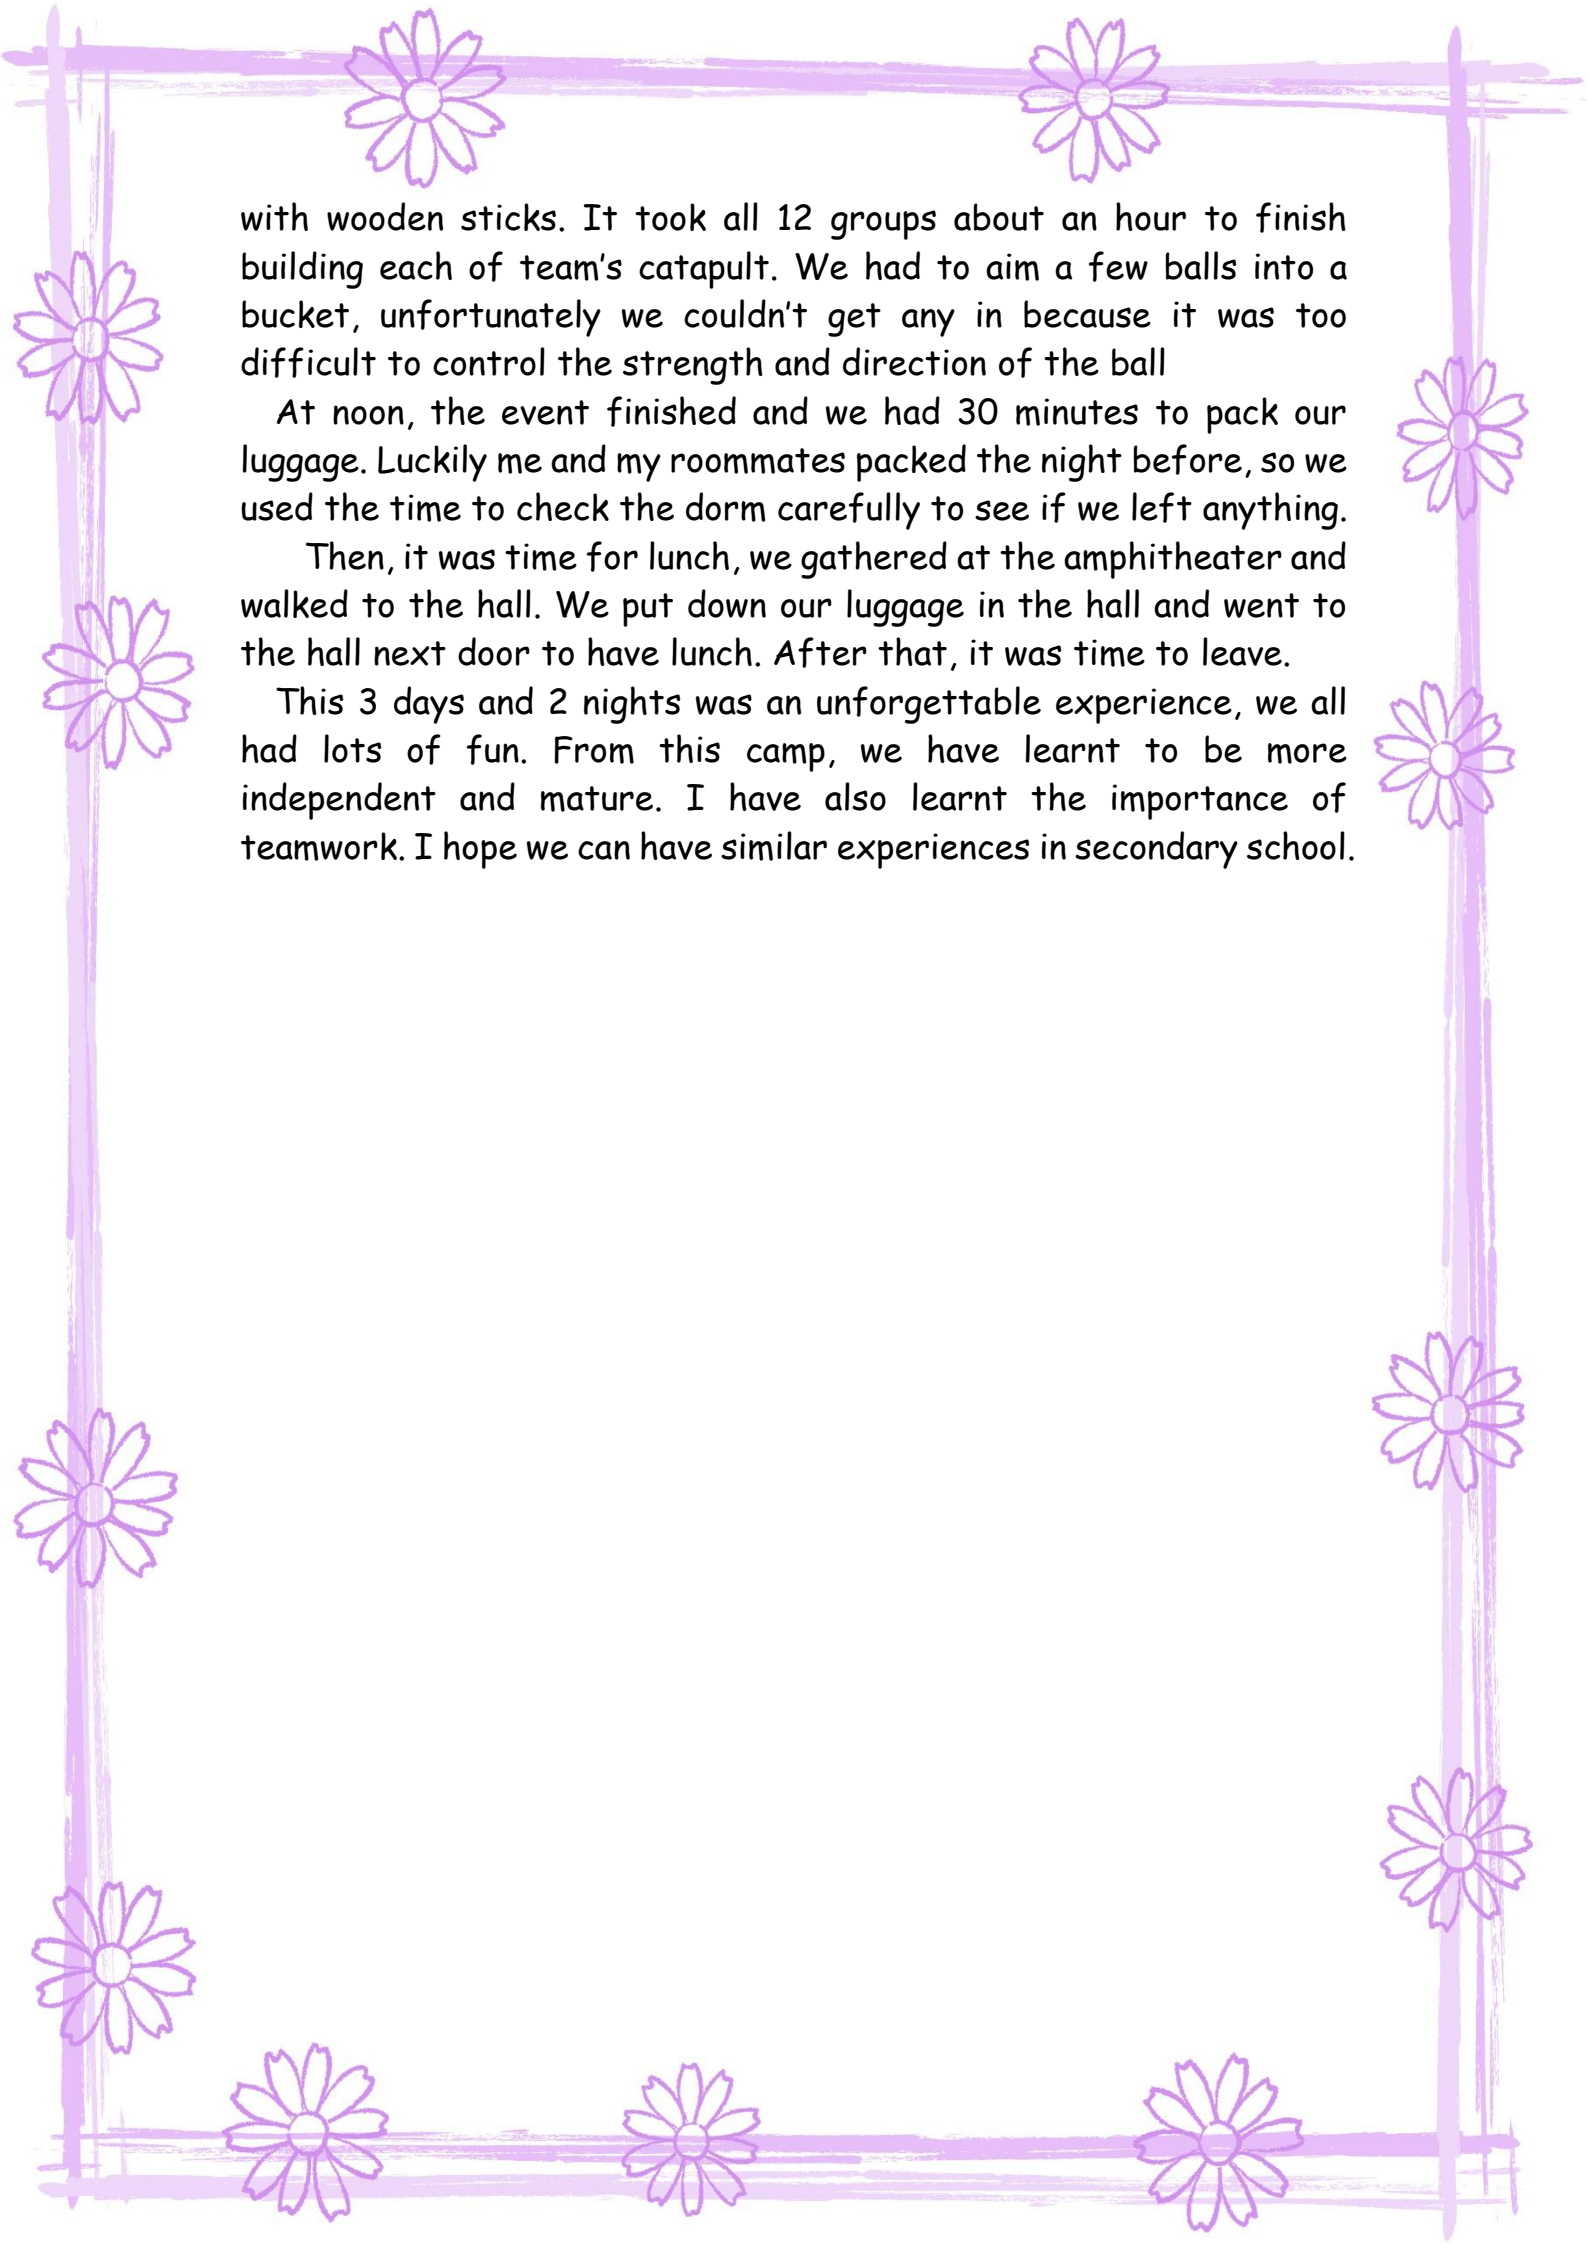

At 5:30 p.m., we had barbeque for dinner. Everyone had difficulty lighting the fires, so I decided not to eat too much, and saved my stomach for the food fest prepared by girls in our class.

But before enjoying all the unhealthy snacks, we all gathered at the hall, each class carried a variety of performances. After that ended, we went to buy some cup noodles for the food fest.

At around 11 p.m., all girls gathered at the 6 people dorm along without class teacher. While eating our cup noodles, my friend accidentally spilt her noodles and the soup went everywhere, leaving a mess on the floor and the table. Then, all of us gossiped together. Playing truth or dare together was so fun and entertaining.

We finally went back to our dorms when it was well past midnight, going to sleep in the uncomfortable beds.

The next morning, we had our final event, building a giant catapult

A decorative border in a light purple color surrounds the text. It consists of thick, hand-drawn lines forming a frame, with several stylized flower icons placed at various points along the border. The flowers have multiple petals and a central circle.

with wooden sticks. It took all 12 groups about an hour to finish building each of team's catapult. We had to aim a few balls into a bucket, unfortunately we couldn't get any in because it was too difficult to control the strength and direction of the ball

At noon, the event finished and we had 30 minutes to pack our luggage. Luckily me and my roommates packed the night before, so we used the time to check the dorm carefully to see if we left anything.

Then, it was time for lunch, we gathered at the amphitheater and walked to the hall. We put down our luggage in the hall and went to the hall next door to have lunch. After that, it was time to leave.

This 3 days and 2 nights was an unforgettable experience, we all had lots of fun. From this camp, we have learnt to be more independent and mature. I have also learnt the importance of teamwork. I hope we can have similar experiences in secondary school.
