Final Exam Chaos

After Christmas, we had the final exam, which was bad for some of my classmates. However, I don't think exams are bad, even if you get bad grades. therefore, I just did it cheerfully, like always.

After exam was not the most relaxed time of all, it's the opposite. the first exam paper I received is PE. I got the worst record of 14 out of 20, which is 70%, and my personal exam most low-score record.

After that I received more and more exam result. I am quite disappointed at my Chinese reading paper's score, but was amazed by my English GE score. I was the most disappointed by my Maths paper, even though it's the highest one out of the three subjects. Very funny.

Today I thought that I have already received all my exam results. However, it surprised me when Chinese teacher told us the she would give us the Chinese writing paper. "Oh no!" I thought. When I received my paper, I thought that I have seen the score wrong. However, when I rubbed my eyes again, it still has not changed. 'OMG! I get 90 marks in Chinese writing!' I exclaimed, Well, I get 87.5 marks, and my mum will scold me because I get deducted 25 marks for writing wrong words. My friend Queena said.

At that moment, the classroom has gone chaotic. I thought that the classroom is going to burst. 'What a week', I thought.

Global warming

Global warming means the temperature goes up on the surface of the Earth. Human activities are the main causes of global warming, such as burning coal and fossil. therefore, it causes greenhouse gases like carbon dioxide, and they are trapped in the atmosphere.

Global warming has a lot of bad effects such as climate change, hotter temperature and the melt of glaciers. It further leads to loss of species, rising sea level and extreme weather. it is a serious problem that we need to solve immediately.

First, reduce carbon emissions. For example, we can take more public transportation like bus, train and minibus. Second, eat more local food because it can reduce the fuels used for delivery, resulting in lower carbon emission. Third, turn off the light if no one is in the room. It uses less electricity.

In conclusion, global warming is a big problem of environment. let's become more environmentally friendly and greener.

How I almost got in trouble

It was an exam day, I was doing my exam paper, I was thinking of how to answer the questions and I looked under my desk.

After the exam has finished, the teacher asked me to go and have a talk with her, she then asked me, "Did you cheat in the exam?" I was so confused. "No, I didn't," I said. She nodded and said, "Somebody said you gave someone answers by doing hand gestures." "No! I didn't " She nodded again. After all of that, she told me, "Maybe the student misunderstood the situation, you should not do any hand gestures during exams." I said "oh, alright." And I returned to my seat.

Everyone asked me what happened and I replied, "Someone thought I was cheating." They said, "Oh!" I told myself that I'll never look around or do weird hand gestures too!

An Unforgettable Day

In the past eleven years, I have experienced a lot of special days. But the most unforgettable day that I think is the day that my parents and I go on a picnic.

That day, my parents and I prepared a lot of food and drinks, such as sandwiches, bananas, salad and apple juice. Also, we bring a camera for taking photos.

My father drove us to the Sai Kung East Country Park. First, we set our picnic mat on a good place that didn't have rubbish. Then, we started eating. Suddenly, we found a monkey running quickly towards us and stole our food. We felt very surprised.

After that, my father and I started to chase the monkey, but unfortunately, the naughty monkey climbed up on a tree and we couldn't go up. I was very disappointed and cried.

I think this day is the most unforgettable and I will not forget it.
